A WHY SHOULD YOUTHS LEARN ABOUT GLOBALISATION?

“We face the challenge of preparing our students for an ever-changing world. Investing in a solid foundation based on academic knowledge will continue to be important. We also need to equip our pupils with a broader set of intellectual and social life-skills. We must prepare our young to think for themselves and be able to respond confidently to problems...we must instill in them a curiosity about the wider world.”

Mr. Tharman Shanmugaratnam, Minister for Finance, Singapore

“This is a very exciting time in the world of information. It’s not just that the personal computer has come along as a great tool. The whole pace of business is moving faster. Globalisation is forcing companies to do things in new ways.”

-Bill Gates, Founder of Microsoft Co., b.1955

A Youth Development Initiative by GYC

B THEMATIC FRAMEWORK

Overarching Theme: Challenges of Globalisation – Creating a Better Future

Challenges of a Globalising Asia

Globalisation of Political Security Threats - Asia and the Middle East

Americanisation- North America

Globalisation of Economic Crises- Debt Crises

Global Governance: Economic Social Forum

The overarching theme, “Challenges of Globalisation – Creating a Better Future”, succinctly frames the focus of the forum. Throughout the 4-day program, forum participants can expect to look at the challenges brought about by globalisation and the issues that confront the world today.

The forum will open with “Challenges of a Globalising Asia – How Asia can Shape the World”, inspired by the book by Professor Joergen Oerstroem Moeller, former ambassador of Denmark and current visiting Fellow to the Institute of Southeast Asia Studies at the National University of Singapore. His book challenges how current economic models have the potential to shift from individuals to the collective, and how instead of economic productivity, Asia can look at ecological productivity. This broad overview will give an insight to the many opportunities and challenges of the potential for Asia to shape the world.

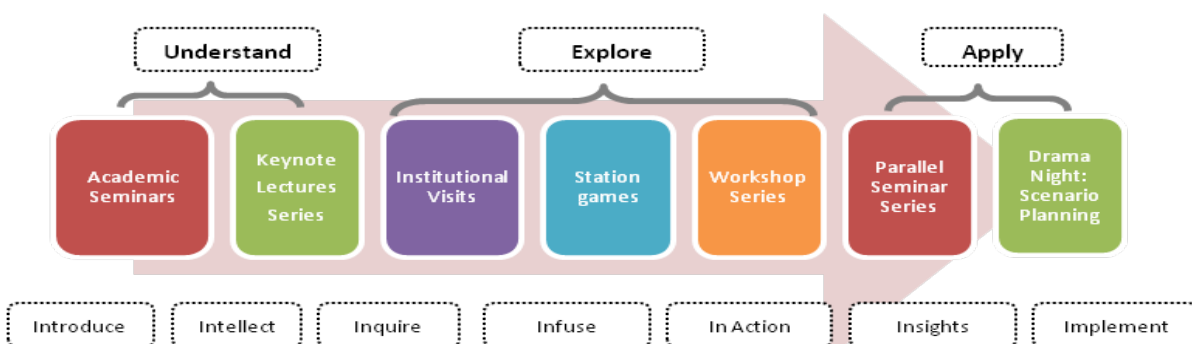

The next following segments will each feature a theme starting with “Globalisation of Political Security Threats – Asia and the Middle East”. Recent global events have proven to us the potency of globalisation and the spread of democratic ideas to the Middle East and Asia. We will also look into the power of networks such as those found in terrorism and explore how terrorism is a multi-dimensional issue.

With globalisation and the widespread use of ICT and space-shrinking technologies, the youth today are exposed to all kinds of cultural influences. Hence, the focus on “Americanisation – North America” looks into the globalization of North American culture – namely Macdonaldization and pop culture (Disneyfication, Hollywood etc.), which has been incorporated into cultures all over the world. We will also look at the challenges globalization poses to local cultures, and how hybrid cultures may form as a result of it.

In light of the recent financial crises such as the Asian Financial Crisis, the Eurozone debt crisis and the 2008 Financial Crisis, the challenges faced in the “Globalisation of Economic Crisis – Debt Crises”, cannot be ignored. Delegates will explore these issues with a specific case-study of the Eurozone debt crisis and debate about the implications of a less regulated, more globalised financial market that changes at an unprecedented rate.

Lastly, the forum will close with an “Global Governance: Economic Social Forum”, in which delegates will have the opportunity to debate and take a stand at a state level, to find innovative solutions to the challenges posed. They will be required to apply their knowledge gained through the forum and showcase their ideas during this session to hopefully, create a better future.

Mr Anselm Chu Founder of Global Youth Congress international

A Youth Leader in the Making

In 1987, when Anselm Chu joined the People's Association Youth Movement (PAYM), little did he know that this was the beginning of a long and relentless journey of leadership and youth development. At the age of 21, he became the youngest chairman of a youth group in PAYM. In recognition of his outstanding leadership, he was conferred the coveted PAYM Youth Award in 1992. He was consequently elected by his counterparts as the Vice-Chairman of the PAYM Central Youth Council in 1995, and later became the National Chairman of PAYM. He further served as Council Member of the Singapore's National Youth Council at the same time.

Nurturing the Young

His enthusiasm for developing people (training and education) was demonstrated as early as age 16 when he became the Chief Drill Instructor in the National Cadet Corps (Air). Subsequently, as a Cadet Lieutenant, he served as Chairperson of the HQ Training Committee, and Chairperson of the HQ Cadet Lieutenants' Committee.

In 2002, Anselm was appointed as an Honorary Inspector in the National Police Cadet Corps (NPCC) HQ. As Chief Lecturer, he revamped the Leadership & Mentoring Skills Course 2004, 2005 for the top three cadets of all secondary schools in Singapore (totalling 500 cadets). In recognition of his outstanding contributions in leadership development, the coveted Commissioner of Police Testimonial Award was conferred upon him.

Besides himself being an exceptional youth leader, Anselm saw the value of nurturing young leaders for the next generation. This impelled him to serve as the first Head of Department (Leadership Development) at Raffles Girls' School (Secondary) from 2005 to 2007. He pioneered the school-wide student leadership board RGS Student Congress in 2005, the 1st International Convention for Youth Leaders in 2006, and also initiated extensive reforms for the Prefectorial Board and Peer Support Board to concretise leadership development for student leaders.

Youth Diplomacy and International Relations

Anselm represented Singapore in youth diplomacy when he was elected the Vice-President of the Committee for ASEAN Youth Cooperation (commonly known as the ASEAN Youth Council). He further served as the Director of the Regional Advisory Board, Commonwealth Youth Asia Centre. These roles further enhanced his involvement in national and regional youth leadership development which allowed him to be the foremost spokesperson for Singaporean youths on an international platform.

Passion in Humanities and Education

In 2004, Anselm was appointed Chairman of the Working Committee for the 3rd Inter-Junior College National Education Quiz. Besides helming the Leadership Development Board, he also taught Social Studies, History, Leadership Studies and China Studies in Raffles Girls' School (Secondary). In 2008, he was appointed as the Chair of the Leadership Advisory Board of Baruch College (ASEAN), City University of New York. From 2008 to 2010, he was an Adjunct Lecturer (History) with NUS High School. Besides being the Program Director (Masters of Economics) and Senior Lecturer (China Studies) with College of International Education, Shandong University, he is also the Executive Director of China Studies Lab Executive Centre.

Global Perspectives

From the late 1980's to the early 2000's, Anselm had an illustrious career with renowned multi-national corporations (MNCs) like McDonald's, American International Assurance (AIA), R. R. Donnelley, United Parcel Service (UPS) and Hertz Rent-A-Car, as well as other regional companies. As one who worked his way up from humble beginnings as a rank-and-file worker to greater responsibilities, he is assuredly a role model for youth. In addition, he acquired valuable experience with these MNCs in various roles as Regional Operations Manager (Asia-Pacific), General Manager (South-East Asia), and Executive Director (Asia). With his extensive exposure in global operations coupled with his entrepreneurial competence, Anselm believes that his insightful take on the challenges confronting the youth of today, garnered from his vast but practical experiences, could educate the young to "Think Global, Act Local" and prepare them for life.
